Editor's Note

Dear Reader,

A heartfelt, eco-friendly hello to all our readers!

We hope this year brings peace, prosperity and sound environment policy and implementation for all of us. With food prices going up and a global economic slow down, respect for and conservation of natural resources is the need of the hour. The discussions in the G-8 Summit on Climate Change and the international debate on policies for a cleaner environment mean that we all need to think of how to consume less and conserve more.

And yet, there is a feeling that we are taking from the environment more and faster than we can give or are giving back. Thousands of trees are getting cut everyday to build concrete jungles. Everyday, we are losing our already endangered species and more stand threatened due to lack of habitat and prey. As publishers dedicated to the cause of spreading awareness on environmental issues, we have constantly been publishing books that highlight hitherto neglected areas and/or bring into print something that demands a discussion or debate.

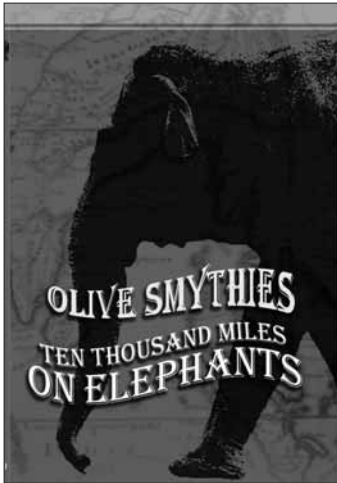

Our 2009 publications include the first ever, illustrated, Hindi Field Guide to Indian mammals titled Bharatiya Stanpayi Prani by Vivek Menon. We have also just brought out the exclusive and unique pictorial guide to identifying plants in the Indian subcontinent. This is the first book to have more than 500 colour plates to help the reader identify plants in the field. Written by an IFS officer, Ramesh Aima, the book titled A Pictorial Guide to the Plants of the Indian Subcontinent is beautifully produced and provides tips on easy identification of various species of plants. It also contains a detailed section on medicinal plants.

We have also brought back into print, books by well known conservationist J C Daniel. The Leopard in India and The Asian Elephant are back in print. Also available is Indian Trees by Brandis in a whole new look and form. Our recent reprints of jungle tales and shikar days have been well received. Classics like Tiger and other Game, In the Grip of the Jungles and Mauled by a Tiger continue to have a readership that basks in the joy of reading about yester years when the animals roamed free and the thick jungles told a thousand stories.

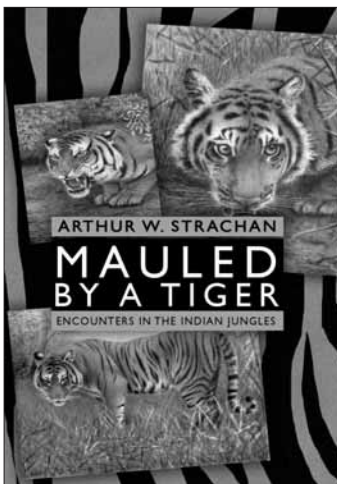

You are welcome to go through the attached list. We look forward to your valued orders.

Kind regards,

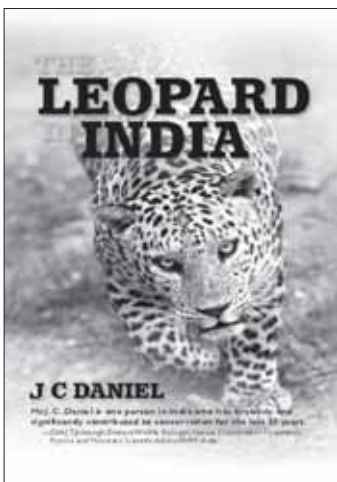

Upendra Arora
